Oklahoma Ninja Warrior Raises Awareness for Epilepsy

Tulsa's Tom Mortimer competed at American Ninja Warrior's qualifying round in Oklahoma City, which aired in June. Tom, a bird specialist at the Tulsa Zoo, says his reason for competing is his son who has epilepsy. Tom found inspiration from his son, who encouraged him to work to be a contestant. Tom is using his Ninja Warrior experience to raise awareness of epilepsy and to support his son and others with the condition. Watch a video about Tom's family here and view his interview with Tulsa news here.

President Trump Signs Bill for Disaster Planning

President Trump signed the Pandemic and All-Hazards Preparedness and Advancing Innovation Act into law on June 24, which requires federal agencies to consider people with disabilities when planning for disasters such as tornadoes, hurricanes, and fires. The act calls for the creation of a national advisory committee for disaster planning for individuals with disabilities. The committee will be comprised of government officials, people with disabilities, and health care professionals and will review federal policies and make recommendations. Peanut Butter Falcon Stars Actor with Down Syndrome

Peanut Butter Falcon, a comedy-adventure film starring Zack Gottsagen, an actor with Down Syndrome, and Shia LeBeouf, wowed fans and critics at South by Southwest. The film won the fan award at the music and film festival, and is set to open in select theaters August 6th. The film was written with Gottsagen in mind after the creators met him at an acting camp and discussed how there are no films starring actors with Down Syndrome. Read more about the film here.

CLL/UCEDD SPOTLIGHT

CLL/LEND at the 2019 AUCD Leadership Academy

The Center for Learning and Leadership/UCEDD and OKLEND's Wanda Felty attended the AUCD Leadership Academy with OKLEND's Mark Fisher. As participants, Wanda and Mark met and worked with leaders throughout the AUCD national network, including CLL's Valerie Williams and AUCD Executive Director Andy Imparato. The academy is a weeklong program designed to enhance leadership skills. The academy welcomes participants from LENDs, UCEDDs, and disability partners and engages them in discussion, shared experiences and evaluation. This year, Oklahoma was proud to be the only state sending two delegates. Congratulations Wanda and Mark!
