Fabric not Fringe

The CLL's own Wanda Felty worked with the Association of University Centers on Disabilities (AUCD) to create a report on family involvement from the perspective of the family discipline itself, and the ongoing paradigm shift towards family-centered care. The report gives a history of family involvement in the LEND network and detailed guidance on incorporating family leaders into programs as teachers, mentors, navigators, students, and researchers. DRS S.T.E.M. Camp

This summer, the Department of Rehabilitation Services is holding STEM Camps throughout the state. DRS STEM Camp is a free three-day camp. Campers will learn to use computers to design and build Gravity Racers, and create buttons, a mouse pad, a T-shirt, and other items. It is open to all students with disabilities ages 14-18 with a basic knowledge of computers. Camps will be held during June and July in OKC, Tushka, Lawton, and Tulsa. Contact rsansom@okdrs.gov for more information.

Oklahoma Gathering for Person Centered Practices

In April, 2019, The Center for Learning and Leadership/UCEDD, the Developmental Disabilities Council of Oklahoma (DDCO), and Bios Corp. held the first ever Oklahoma Gathering for Person Centered Practices. The event brought together self-advocates, family advocates, professionals, and allies throughout the state to discuss sexuality and healthy relationships. Sexuality instructor Richelle Frabotta from Miami University provided keynote presentations. Breakout sessions focused on various topics related to sexual health, identity, and safety. The Oklahoma Self Advocacy Network (OKSAN), a project of Oklahoma's UCEDD and DDCO, also met with Richelle to develop peer-to-peer training on healthy sexuality and relationships. The team enjoyed meeting and working with Richelle, and is looking forward to continuing their work.
