Interdisciplinary/Interprofessional Week Keynote Address

“We Can Do It” Co-creating Excellence Through Interprofessional Education

Presented by:

Kathrin A. Eliot, PhD, RDN/LD, FAND
Health Professions Educator, Department of Nutritional Sciences
The University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center

Speaker Bio

Kathrin A. Eliot, Ph.D., R.D.N., is a Health Professions Educator at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center. Previously, Dr. Eliot was an Assistant Professor and core faculty member in the Center for Interprofessional Education and Research at Saint Louis University. She has published and presented nationally on interprofessional education topics ranging from course development to student learning assessment. Her current research projects include the development of interprofessional competencies for the management and prevention of obesity and a multi-institution study to evaluate interprofessional pedagogy for entry-level learners.

As an advocate for her profession, Dr. Eliot is highly involved in dietetics leadership at the national level. She currently serves as the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics representative to both the National Academy of Medicine Global Forum on Health Professions Education and the Interprofessional Education Collaborative (IPEC). She is also the chair of the Interprofessional Education Committee for the Nutrition and Dietetics Educators and Preceptors Council. Her most recent honors include being inducted as a Fellow of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics (2014), receiving the Outstanding Dietitian of the Year (2016) award from the Missouri Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics and the Outstanding Dietetics Educator (2016) award from the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics.

Learning Objectives

Upon completion of this session, participants will improve their competence and performance by being able to:

- Identify benefits and barriers for participating in interprofessional education (IPE).
- Describe how inclusion of faculty and students in IPE initiatives can contribute toward achievement of the Quadruple Aim.
- Develop new opportunities for involvement and growth in collaborative teaching and scholarship.
